

Summary of Most Recent Significant Changes (9/8/2014)

Please read the entire modified Terms of Use Agreement and Privacy Policy for more detailed information, as this summary is only intended as a quick summary (and not a full description) of the most recent significant changes or the sections which contain significant changes.

Privacy Policy, Section 3: We describe how we treat personally identifiable information that is anonymized and how we treat non-personally identifiable information that we combine with personally identifiable information for purposes of sharing with others.

Privacy Policy, Section 3(b): We update our description of tracking technologies that we or third parties may set on your browsers or devices that may collect information across multiple sessions on the Site and third party properties and the information that may be collected by or associated with such tracking technologies. For example, we describe how we may set tracking technologies in emails we send you to track whether you opened or forwarded the email or whether you clicked on links within the email.

Privacy Policy, Section 4(a) and (b): We update our description of how we may use your non-personally identifiable information and personally identifiable information. For example, we only send newsletters, marketing and promotional emails to you if you opt in and we use certain information to make your experience more convenient and to customize what you see on the Site and third party properties.

Privacy Policy, Section 5: We update our description of your choices regarding certain uses of your information and what those choices mean and don't mean. For example, we provide additional guidance on your choices regarding tracking technologies (whether set by the Site or by third parties) and what such choices mean and don't mean, and provide information on this Site's use of Nielsen proprietary measurement software to collect and use video viewing metrics and other information and your choices with respect to such collection and use.

Privacy Policy, Section 7: We've updated our description to make clear that we don't share your personally identifiable information with third party co-branded service partners for marketing purposes without your separate opt-in consent, although we may share such information with such partners for purposes of administering or conducting the co-branded service without a separate opt-in.

Privacy Policy, Section 10 and 12(b): We have updated these sections and the applicable contact information for us if you have privacy questions.

Terms of Use, Section 1: We've updated certain eligibility requirements for the Site.

Terms of Use, Section 6: We've updated our Rules of Conduct to include additional prohibited conduct.

Terms of Use, Section 7: We've added information about additional terms applicable regarding any e-Commerce we may make available through the Site.

Terms of Use, Section 9: We've added information about how to contact us regarding closed captioning requirements.

Terms of Use, Section 10: We've updated certain actions we may take regarding content posted and representations you make regarding your postings.

Terms of Use, Section 11: We've added Voting Rules.

Terms of Use, Section 15: We've updated the disclaimer and limitation of liability.

Terms of Use, Section 16: In addition to your responsibility to indemnify us for breaches or violations of the Terms of Use Agreement and the public posting of your posts, we've added that you are also responsible to indemnify us for your use of the Site or our use of your posts as permitted by you.